Do you like shooting cannons at bugs enough not to care about anything else?

This is the first game I chose to play from the Primitive Studio bundle which I picked up. Getting the game for $0.08, I calibrated my expectations accordingly. I actually don't mind the core mechanic of the game at all, and shooting cannons at bugs is actually kinda fun. The game feels like it's missing some polish, and a couple improvements could make the game feel significantly more complete. It would be a completely different game if the character could also move/shoot, and it would be easy to add achievements for a game like this.

Did I get my money's worth for $0.08? Yes, I think so.. beh what a pile of boring, barely controllable and asset flip. Although Insects Runner is probably going to be a short experience for most, it does have a little bit of charm. It's not really a game I'd ever go out of my way to recommend, but it's also not something I feel bad about owning, playing...purchasing. I could be irrationally angry at its simplicity, its hypnotic/mind-numbing visuals and slightly unthrilling single gameplay mechanic... but I'm not going to and instead, say it's just what you expect out of the bargain bin, cheap and cheerful enough.
